Justificativa

O dia 16 de novembro é considerado o Dia Internacional da Tolerância, pela UNESCO - (Organização das Nações Unidas para a Educação, a Ciência e a Cultura). “Tolerância é respeito, aceitação e apreciação da rica diversidade das culturas do mundo, nossas formas de expressão e formas de ser humano” - Declaração de Princípios sobre Tolerância da UNESCO, de 1995.

É esta declaração que inicia, um ano depois, a proclamação do Dia Internacional da Tolerância pela Assembleia Geral das Nações Unidas com a Resolução 51, de 12 de dezembro, de 1995 (em anexo). Esta data foi escolhida para comemorar o aniversário de adoção da Declaração. A tolerância reconhece os direitos humanos universais e as liberdades fundamentais de outros. As pessoas são naturalmente diversas, somente a tolerância pode garantir a sobrevivência de comunidades mistas em todas as regiões do globo.

Fifty-first session
Agenda item 110 (b)

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

[on the report of the Third Committee (A/51/619/Add.2)]

51/95. Follow-up to the United Nations Year for Tolerance

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolutions 47/124 of 18 December 1992, 48/126 of 20 December 1993 and 49/213 of 23 December 1994, by which it proclaimed and supported the United Nations Year for Tolerance,

Recalling also that the Charter of the United Nations affirms in its preamble that to practice tolerance is one of the principles to be applied to attain the ends pursued by the United Nations of preventing war and maintaining peace,

Stressing that one of the purposes of the United Nations, as set forth in the Charter, is the achievement of international cooperation in solving international problems of an economic, social, cultural or humanitarian character and in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion,

Bearing in mind the Universal Declaration of Human Rights,¹ the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, adopted by the World Conference on Human Rights on 25 June 1993,² and the International Covenants on Human Rights,³

¹ Resolution 217 A (III).

² A/CONF.157/24 (Part I), chap. III.

³ Resolution 2200 A (XXI), annex.

7. Encourages the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to continue its activities aimed at reinforcing the struggle against the rise of intolerance;

8. Recommends that interested intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations and specialized agencies exert efforts in their respective fields to contribute to the long-term follow-up programme for the United Nations Year for Tolerance, including celebration of the International Day for Tolerance, and to consider what further contributions they can make to implement and disseminate the standards affirmed in the Declaration of Principles;

9. Requests the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to continue to coordinate actions in support of tolerance promotion and education in partnership with other United Nations agencies and regional, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations and to make reports available to the General Assembly on a biennial basis on the implementation of the Declaration of Principles and the Follow-up Plan of Action;

10. Invites the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to consider, at an appropriate time, the possibility of organizing an international conference to inform and mobilize public opinion, as well as the United Nations system, in this regard;

11. Decides to consider the question of the follow-up to the United Nations Year for Tolerance at its fifty-third session.
